SEATTLE BIKE REPAIR

DON'T TRAIN FOR STP THIS YEAR AND HAVE MAJOR PROBLEMS ON THE ROAD.

Just as you would regularly change the oil in your car, you should replace your chain regularly. You are probably very comfortable with the way your trusty old chain works, however, a new chain will make you bike feel new, not to mention that it will increase the efficiency of each of your pedal strokes. Plus with a new chain you won't find yourself on the side of the road with a broken chain.

You often can't tell that a chain is in need of replacement, but Seattle Bike Repair can measure it and determine how much it has stretched over the miles. If you are in need of a new chain we will also examine your freewheel, and make sure that your "drivechain" is in top notch shape.

Most bikes come from the factory with a rubber one. Quite often they deteriorate and when you pull the tube out to change a flat, OOPS, they snap and you are up a creek without a wheel.
